

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4bpBUSxQRao> (minut 4,27)

Use of dietary supplements by children

Now as a model we'll use what we've learned in full sentences to describe this line graph.

From January to March the percentage of children using supplements remains fairly static at approximately 10 percent.

The percentage of children taking dietary supplements was relatively stable during the first two months of the year. During the first two months supplement use remained fairly unchanged.

It then fell gradually in march.

There was a slight decrease in the use of dietary supplements in march

The graph shows a slight decrease in march.

Supplement use experienced a steady decrease in march.

Supplement use decreased slightly in march.

It went up and down widely over the next two months.

It fluctuated for the following two months.

There was a significant increase in the percentage of children taking supplements between June and August.

The period between June and August saw a dramatic growth in the use of dietary supplements

Between June and August the percentage of children taking dietary supplements shot up dramatically.

The greatest rise was from June to August when it rose by 22 for two consecutive months from June to August.

The percentage of children taking dietary supplements was at its highest level in August.

Supplement use peaked at close to 25 in August.

It reached a peak of 25 in August.

Between August and October this figure dropped dramatically to 11

from August to October there was a drop of 14 in the percentage of children taking dietary supplements between August and October there was a considerable fall in the percentage of children using supplements

This was followed by a sharp drop of 14 over the next two months

Supplement use experienced a dramatic fall between August and October

Between October and December the decrease in the use of supplements was at a much slower pace than in the previous two months.

Supplement use continued to fall steadily over the next two months until it reached its lowest point in December
It fell to a low of only 5 in december

So next time when you have to speak or write about trends try to use some of these phrases

Use of dietary supplements by children

